This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

THE evidence gathered together in this volume is chiefly derived from four collections. These are the documents existing in the muniment-rooms of Merton, Queen's, and New College in Oxford, and the ancient Miscellanea in the Public Record Office. Extracts from three printed books have been made, that is to say, from the journey of Eleanor Countess of Leicester, edited by the late Mr. Botfield, the original of which is in the British Museum, from the account rolls of Finchale Priory, and from the fabric rolls of York Minster, published by the Surtees Society. A few scattered accounts of the reign of Edward the Third are preserved in the Bodleian Library. Two have been found in the muniment-room of Belvoir Castle, and some few extracts have been made from the archives of Exeter College. The evidence however which has been derived from other than the four collections specified has been scanty, and, comparatively speaking, unimportant.

The most valuable and complete of all the records examined by the author are those of Merton College. Of these the earliest are the bailiffs' rolls of Stillington, in Durham. The estates possessed by this ancient and distinguished corporation were situated in Warwick, Kent, Hants, Durham, Northumberland, Cambridgeshire, Leicestershire, Bucks, Surrey, Wilts, and Oxfordshire *, and accounts from all these estates are preserved in abundance among the College archives. No series indeed is complete, but the amount derived from each locality, as will be seen by glancing at the Index, is as a rule more copious and continuous than that from any other places.

Queen's College has afforded only one set of farming accounts, those, namely, of God's House in Southampton, the bedesmen and sisters of which possessed the manor of Gussage in Dorset. The fullest of these Southampton accounts long precede the foundation of Queen's College, and belong to a time when God's House was an independent corporation.

New College has supplied information for the later portion of this inquiry. The archives of this society are in the very best condition, but, with one exception, give no evidence before the reign of Richard the Second. The exception is the manor of Heyford Warren in Oxfordshire. This estate was purchased by Wykeham from the Lisles, and some of the more ancient records were transferred at the time of purchase to the founder of New College, probably as evidence of title. They are thirteen in number. The New College estates are situated in Essex, Oxfordshire, Wilts, and Bucks.

* The names are Wolford, Elham, Basingstoke, Stillington, Embleton, Ponteland, Cambridge, Gamlingay, Kibworth, Cheddington, Maldon, Farley, Letherhead, Stratton, Oxford, Cuxham, Ibstone. Kibworth was always let to farm, and the North Country estates were shortly after the College was founded. Some years after the great plague, the letting becomes general, except in a few of the nearest properties. Occasionally the land is taken into the hands of the lord, and cultivated by a bailiff for a few years, probably because no tenant could be found.

By far the largest number of farm accounts which have been examined are preserved in the Public Record Office. It is seldom however that the documents derived from any particular estate are very numerous, or very consecutive. It is not clear how these records came into the possession of the Crown. Some may have been transferred from the mesne lord on the occurrence of escheat or forfeiture, or may have been surrendered on the occasion of a re-grant of lands. Some perhaps represent the proceeds of estates administered in the Court of Wards. A few are of such estates as, belonging to lunatics, were in the custody of the Crown. Accounts of monastic estates were probably transferred either on the suppression of alien priories, or at the general destruction of these establishments in the sixteenth century. A few are records of estates held by the king or queen, which were audited in the same way as the estates of other lords. Some of the evidence of these royal estates has been extracted from what are called the foreign accounts in the Pipe Rolls.

The largest collections contributing to the earlier and middle period are those which contain records of the lands of Isabella de Fortibus, of Roger Bigod Earl of Norfolk, of the Earl of Clare, and the Hungerford and March estates. Those which relate to the lands of Battle Abbey, of Boxley Priory, the Templars' possessions, and Ramsey Abbey, among many others, have been most useful for the middle and later period; while the best evidence for the later period is supplied from the accounts of Wolrichston, and of some among the lands of Battle Abbey. Besides those which are arranged alphabetically in the Record Office catalogue, under the names of families and places, there is a very large and rich collection of miscellanea, contained in thirty-five bundles, the greater part being farm accounts, which have contributed a great mass of evidence. On the whole, at least five thousand documents have been consulted in the Public Record Office.

By far the largest part of these records are bailiffs' annual rolls. Some few however are accounts of monastic expenditure. These are most plentiful among the Bicester and Boxley rolls. Some of the Bicester accounts are virtually a registration of births, deaths, and marriages in the town. A few of the Wardrobe Accounts have been consulted. This series is not perfect, and gives but little information on general prices. Purchases too on behalf of the Crown are suspicious, for we are not sure how far the prices of articles taken by the royal purveyors represent real market rates. The Crown purchased by its own bushel and quarter. Hence as there was always an excess in the measure, the Crown baker was debited in one out of every twenty royal quarters, and the market value of this quantity was charged against him. Thus in 1307, the debit against the baker amounts to 264 quarters and a half, and this quantity is valued at 6*s.* 8*d.* the quarter. This rate is considerably in excess of the average, though not of the price which ruled at the end of the year, that is, at about Michaelmas, 1308. These wheat prices in the Wardrobe Accounts are regularly quoted in so far as they exist at the close of the period commented on in these volumes*.

* The following is the traditional form of entry:—"In precio cxvi quart: j bsl. frumenti provenientium de 2323 quarteriis frumenti de provisis Angliæ, viz. de quolibet xx quarteriis sic provisis unum quarterium de incremento mensuræ a xs. jd. qr. quarterio per medium."

The evidence contained in the Merton and New College farm accounts is most copious and continuous, but the bailiffs' rolls are by no means the only source from which information is derived. At New College the whole account of receipt and expenditure was collected in one long annual roll, written out by the three bursars, and audited by the warden, whose signature generally appears at the foot of the roll. These accounts are generally unbroken after the period at which this volume closes. Only a few however were available for this portion of my enquiry, for New College, it must be remembered, was not founded till 1386. The long rolls of Queen's supply a little evidence, of no great importance, the records containing but few particulars.

At Merton College most of the members on the foundation had employment in managing the affairs of the House, and all who had office were obliged to give an account of receipts and disbursements. A great variety of documents was consequently sent in at different times by the various College officers. The warden gave in an annual account, which contains prices of clothing. The sub-warden gives another account of the proceeds from the several estates. The three proctors, or bursars, return each his record of expenditure for his third of the year. There are accounts of chaplains who superintended buildings and repairs. As one of Merton's statutes contained a proviso that his poor relations should be educated at the charge of the society, accounts are furnished of the expenses incurred for the "pueri e genere fundatoris," though but very few of these have been preserved, and such as exist are generally long bills for mending shoes. The journeys undertaken by the warden and his associates for the purpose of inspecting the estates, or for other objects connected with the business of the College, are duly chronicled in a bill of charges. Of course but few of these have been preserved, after the lapse of so many centuries, since the interest felt in such documents must have been transitory. Among these records there still survives one imperfect specimen of a scrutiny, printed at the end of this volume. Besides those documents contributing more or less to a record of prices, there are abundant court rolls, giving an insight into the police of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, and a few rentals, from which we may learn the facts as to the distribution of land, and the various rents and services paid by the possessors. Three of these rentals have been printed at the close of this volume; one as perhaps the earliest existing record of the tenements possessed by a corporation, in what was even then an important town, the other two as illustrating the state of society in two Oxfordshire parishes. On the whole, the facts collected in this volume have been extracted from about 8000 documents.

I have examined the greater part of these myself. But I am indebted to the liberality of the Lords of the Treasury for a letter directing the Master of the Rolls to put the services of one of the officials of the Public Record Office at my disposal. The deputy-keeper appointed one of the ablest among the skilful and learned gentlemen who are occupied with the care of the national archives, and for a year and a half Mr. Frank Haydon was engaged in making extracts from public documents. To his labours I owe all the evidence derived from the rolls relating to the estates of Isabella de Fortibus, for much of that which illustrates the last thirteen years of Henry the Third's reign and the reign of Edward the First, and for corn, stock, and some other prices in the great Bigod series. I have however gone through these last myself, in order to gather some facts, which I did not at first think important, and therefore did not ask Mr. Haydon to collect, but subsequently felt to be necessary in order that the enquiry should be complete.

The collection and arrangement of the evidence in this volume is the result of rather more than five years' labour. I was led in the first instance to enter upon this branch of history in consequence of some suggestions made at the meeting of the International Statistical Congress in 1860, as to the importance of researches into ancient values, and the relations which might be determined between the prices of labour and food. On returning to Oxford, as I was obliged to remain during the long vacation at home, I searched in the Bodleian Library, and found a little evidence for the fourteenth century, and much for the sixteenth. At first it was my intention to confine my researches to the change of values which took place in the sixteenth century, and thinking that information might be obtained from the account books of the Colleges, I investigated in the first instance those of All Souls. Subsequently I obtained permission to examine the muniment-room at Merton, and here I found a vast store of the most valuable documents. I resolved therefore to begin as early as I could, and to make use of the archives in the Public Record Office. I have thus become an antiquary by accident. The result of a portion of my researches is contained in this volume. I have omitted nothing which I thought would contribute to a distinct view of prices in the 142 years which are here treated. But my first object was to collect evidence on the price of food, labour, and necessary materials. I hope it is not too much to say, that the evidence supplied in the following pages is so large, that if an equal mass could be subsequently discovered, no considerable effect would be induced upon the averages which have been derived from the facts before the reader.

The years are generally reckoned from Michaelmas to Michaelmas. The exceptions to this rule are mentioned in the note prefixed to the tables of corn prices. In order to secure uniformity, the same reckoning is employed throughout, although, as will be seen, the greater part of the evidence may relate to the next year after that which stands at the head of the sales in the table.

Again, the years are generally reckoned by the regnal dates of the kings. Those who are experienced in documents of this epoch, are well aware of how great is the confusion in the style of the first two Edwards. Edward of Carnarvon is rarely called Edward the Second, but is occasionally distinguished as "Edvardus filius Edvardi." Very often, however, the last two words are omitted, and internal evidence alone can decide whether the document belongs to the reign of the father or to that of the son. Fortunately the character of the handwriting in the two reigns is very different. But I have never trusted to this alone. Some few mistakes in dates had crept in, but they have been corrected, in all cases it is hoped, before it was too late. See pp. 169, 595. These were errors made in the transcripts from the Public Record Office; and shew how much care must be taken to avoid a confusion which may mislead the most experienced antiquary. The correction of the error has been effected by comparing the names of the bailiffs and the arrears and debits of successive years; by the internal evidence of persons and places; of prices, for the reign of Edward the Second was marked by several great famines; and sometimes by the fact that a double account has been found.

Occasionally, but very rarely, the year of the common era is given. In the Ramsey accounts, the year is that of the abbot. This appeared at first so great a difficulty in the way of interpreting the true year, that I had intended to exclude all the Ramsey records from my tables. But I found the succession given with apparent accuracy in Tanner, and I was able to verify the dates in this authority by means of the originals. Hence the Ramsey records appear in the second Appendix.

The days are almost invariably designated by the saint to whom they were dedicated, or by some holiday near them. This practice, though it increases the labour of reduction, is a great aid to verification, especially when the reckoning specifies a moveable feast.

The accounts are, without exception, written in Latin. Of course the Latin is exceedingly barbarous; the terms used are often no more than English words with Latin terminations; and occasionally they are not inflected at all. But the structure is always grammatical, and the genders are, as a rule, correctly given. Sometimes indeed the same document conjugates a verb variously, but this negligence is rare. It will be remembered that these annual accounts, as well as abstracts and summaries of them, were rendered from every manor or parish in England.

It is wholly incredible that these records were written in a tongue which was not familiarly understood. I have long thought that the fact of political songs being frequently composed in Latin is evidence of how widely diffused was the use of this language. But the universality of these bailiffs' accounts seems to be a still more cogent argument for the same conclusion. Is it possible to imagine that a responsible officer should have rendered, even by the hands of a scribe, an annual document, the terms of which he could not comprehend? Men might perhaps, from superstition or habit, have acquiesced in a form of religious worship, couched in a language which they did not understand; they have indeed often done so; but is it reasonable to think that they would have transacted business in an unknown tongue? Besides, most of these accounts contain corrections and interpolations inserted after the fair copy was written. One of the Merton accounts is clearly a rough draught of the annual record. Can we suppose that credits and debits were entered and acknowledged, and the responsible parties be ignorant of the language in which the items of account were expressed? After the system of farming by bailiffs ceased, and still more, after the Reformation broke up the distribution of estates possessed by corporations, the single link which connected ancient with later customs, the general acquaintance with Latin, may have been severed; but before the fifteenth century it was, I am persuaded, all but universal, and till the Reformation, general.

It is possible, but not likely, that many more of these accounts may exist. In this volume most of the English counties are represented in the tables of corn prices, the only exceptions being Cornwall, Lancashire, and Westmoreland. This part of England was, as may be proved, very thinly peopled in the time before me, and rarely visited.

Norfolk supplies the largest number of localities, and after this Oxfordshire. But the evidence from Oxfordshire is far more copious and connected. Suffolk, Kent, Wilts, Essex, Bucks, Sussex, and Hampshire follow in order, information being derived from thirty-two separate estates in each of the first two; from thirty-one, thirty, twenty-nine, twenty-six, and twenty-four from the others. Nineteen estates lie in Gloucestershire; seventeen lie in Yorkshire; sixteen in Surrey and Berkshire respectively; fifteen in Warwick; fourteen in Somerset; thirteen in Lincoln; eleven in Hertford and Glamorganshire*; nine in Cambridge, Huntingdon, and Northampton; eight in Middlesex and Leicester; seven in Beds and Dorset; six in Salop and Derby; five in Hereford and Worcester; four in Cheshire, Cumberland, and Devon; three in Durham, Monmouth, Notts, and Stafford; two in Rutland and Denbighshire; one in Radnor, Brecon, and Carnarvon. Sixty-seven localities have not been identified. There are also some other places contained in the Index which do not give corn prices.

There are a few Irish accounts of the thirteenth century. These formed part of the estate of Roger Bigod, and are situate on the east coast of Ireland. These accounts are thirty-three in all, derived from eight estates; besides some from Katherlow or Carlow, which relate almost entirely to purchases of clothing. I have not calculated the Irish grain prices in my averages, because it seemed that the source was too remote for such a purpose. But I did not think it well to omit them from my entries, because they throw some light on the state of the English pale. These estates are situated in Kildare, Carlow, and Wexford. I do not feel certain whether Finvagh can be identified with Finvoy in Antrim.

Farm accounts are, as a rule, in a far more dilapidated condition than any other ancient documents. The interest they embodied was transitory, and there seems to have been no motive to preserve them, other than the value annexed to all evidence of title. In the great suit carried on some years since between New College and the tithe-payers of Hornchurch, reliance was placed by the plaintiffs on the evidence of their bailiffs' accounts in the fourteenth century. It is probable that we owe the preservation of these records to that barbarous rule of law which denied a prescriptive title to land and its incidents, in case proof could be given of an adverse right within the time of legal memory.

I cannot pretend to have exhausted the material contained in these accounts. Great additions, for instance, might be made to the vocabularies of medieval Latin from the terms used in such records. Hereafter, perhaps, some zealous philologist may search the bailiffs' rolls of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries for traces of that local phraseology to which the scribe, when he had need to use it in the account, annexed a Latin termination. Ducange is of little aid in these cases.

The accounts are generally written on parchment—a very few on vellum. Up to the beginning of the fourteenth century the use of these materials was universal, and, as far as I have seen, no paper is employed before this period. There is a book in the Public Record Office, written in the reign of Edward the Second (1307–1327), containing an account of customs paid at Bordeaux, and the material of which is a thick paper, apparently made of cotton. Perhaps paper was employed in Italy before the time of the Bordeaux register, as cotton grew in the southern part of Europe at a very remote time, and the art of paper-making from this fibre may have been practised at an early date.

The earliest English specimen of paper made from linen rags, which I have ever seen, is a small piece containing an account of the spices contained in the Merton College larder in the year 1337. The fabric is very coarse and rude, a large fragment of the original linen being still visible in the substance of the paper, and the texture is very loose. Shortly after this date, however, excellent paper, wired and watermarked, may be found; but the ancient fragment alluded to above is, perhaps, the earliest existing specimen of an art which has been the means of such important benefits to mankind. After the use of paper became general, the quality of the parchment is greatly deteriorated.

The bailiffs' rolls contain but few allusions to contemporaneous events, and seldom refer to high and low prices. Such notices as do occur have been collected at the end of the volume. The chief value of the political and social notes lies in the light they throw on the relations between different ranks of society.

The documents printed at the end of the volume were supposed to have some interest. The Cuxham Account is a specimen of the many thousands which have been consulted. The Itineraries were, it appeared, characteristic.

The Roll of the Feast seemed to be an example of what were the charges at which a great corporation would give a grand entertainment to one of its royal, or almost royal, alumni. The Rentals have an antiquarian and, it is hoped, a social interest. The Kalendar illustrates the method of keeping accounts; the Extract from the court roll is a specimen of manorial justice; the Expulsion of the misbehaving fellow of Merton illustrates academical discipline before the earliest days of existing academical records; the Application for relief from taxation the appeals made against the incidents of ordinary tenure; and the Scrutiny suggests what were the lights and shades of bygone college life. I have had a seal of the chancellor copied and engraved. The type is well known, but the specimen, of which the cut is a facsimile, is probably unique.

The Indices have been carefully prepared, and are, it is hoped, sufficient for all purposes of reference.

It only remains for me to tender my thanks to the Lords of the Treasury for their liberality in aiding my researches by their authority; and to the Societies of Merton, Exeter, Queen's, and New Colleges for the fulness with which they have given me access to their archives.

TABLES OF PRICES.

TABLES OF

THE PRICES OF GRAIN.

NOTE.

In the following tables of the price of Grain, the evidence of each year for the sales of all kinds of such produce is given collectively, under five heads: I. Wheat; II. Barley, Drage, Bere, and Malt; III. Oats; IV. Rye, Mixtil, and Bladum; V. Beans, Peas, Vetches, Pulse.

Under three of these heads, quantities to which no letter is prefixed are to be understood as Barley, Rye, and Beans respectively.

Under the second head, D. denotes Drage, M. Malt (when the grain malted is not designated), B. M. Barley Malt, D. M. Drage Malt.

Under the fourth head, M. represents Mixtil, B. the Bladum of the records.

Under the fifth, P. and V. stand severally for Peas and Vetches. When the seed is designated Pulse or Polstrum, this word is printed at length.

A supplementary table of peculiar or rare kinds of grain or seed will be found at the end of the series of annual statements. It was thought better to print these separately, than to incorporate them with the mass of each year's evidence.

The year is generally reckoned from Michaelmas to Michaelmas, i. e. for instance, from Sept. 29, 1259 to Sept. 29, 1260. But the Cuxham and Ibstone accounts are dated from July 25. Those of Basingstoke, Cambridge, Chedington, and Wolford, from July 7; those of Elham, Farley, and Letherhead, from July 25 and July 22; those of Gamlingay from July 22; those of Oxford from July 7 or July 22; and those of Stratton from July 25 or Aug. 1. It will be seen that the collective evidence from each of those localities is far larger than that from any other single source.

The order in which the places are arranged is alphabetical. The index at the end of all the tables of prices will give the precise locality of each estate as far as it can be determined.

The quantities are reckoned in quarters or sums, bushels or strikes, and pecks. With hardly an exception the quarter is always of eight bushels, the bushel invariably contains four pecks. In some few such returns the quarter is called a crannock, and in measuring oats only, the crannock contains sixteen bushels.

It will be seen that at about the close of the thirteenth century, prices of grain in 'pollards' are distinguished from money values in 'sterling.' The word 'pollards' is a generic name for certain kinds of base money of foreign origin, which had a general circulation at that period, and which were temporarily recognised as currency by certain proclamations determining their value in sterling.

When dates are given, designating the day on which sales were made or purchases effected, it must be understood that they have been ordinarily reduced into the modern notation from Holydays in the original document.

When any marked difference in prices from the same locality is derived from the facts that purchases were made for the use of the household, or for seed, the circumstance is noted.

Except in rare cases, purchases and sales of inferior grain, known in the accounts as scurril or cursal corn, are omitted. It must be understood then that the corn is generally of the best quality. This rule does not for obvious reasons apply to oats.

PRICES OF RARER GRAIN.

TABLES OF THE PRICES

OF

SOME RARER KINDS OF GRAIN.

NOTE.

The following series contains an account of such entries of rarer or dubious kinds of grain and seed as have been discovered in the records.

They are as follows: Bere, Bericorn, Berimancorn, Brotcorn, Bulimong, Darnel, Drank, Drowe, Haras, Haste, Hemp, Leek, Linseed, Lendrun, Mancorn, Mixt Grain, Mustard, Onion, Pilcorn, Polscorn, Polver, Shadcorn, Sigal, Seneneyseed, Spald, Spelt, Splat, Sprig, and Vesset. It will be seen that they are found in particular localities only.

They are all, with the exception of Onion and Leek seed, calculated by the quarter.

GRASS BY THE ACRE.

NOTE.

THE following are such prices of Grass by the Acre as have been found in the accounts consulted by me. They are chiefly derived from the Bailiff's Rolls of Holywell Manor in Oxford. The term Rewannum, (i.e. R. in the table,) appears to signify the aftergrowth of the ordinary Hay harvest. When the locality is not designated, the produce must be understood to be that of the abovementioned estate.

PRICES OF STOCK.

TABLES

THE PRICES OF STOCK.

NOTE.

In the following Tables of Stock, a division is made into five heads: viz. Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Pigs, Poultry.

Under the first of these heads, numbers to which no sign is prefixed imply Oxen: C. stands for Cows. Entries of the price of Calves have not been reproduced.

Under the second, numbers with no sign designate Horses, whose use is not specified in the original. A. stands for Affri, a name used to denote, it appears, a breed of small horses, employed frequently in ancient husbandry.

Under the third, M. means Muttons; E. Ewes; Ho. Hoggasters; Hu. Hurtards, i. e. Rams; T. 'Bidentes;' L. Lambs.

Under the fourth, Po. Pigs; S. Sows; B. Boars, 'porcu. porculi;' Hogg. Hoggetts; 'Porcelli' are generally sucking-pigs.

Under the fifth, G. stands for Geese; D. for Ducks; C. for Capons; P. for Pigeons. Pigeons are reckoned at so many a penny.

A short supplementary list is given of the price at which Swans were sold, as far as the originals supply information.

PRICES OF LABOUR.

THE PRICES OF LABOUR.

NOTE.

In the following Tables the price of four kinds only of labour is given. Three of these are agricultural; the fourth is mechanical.

Under the first head is collected the evidence bearing on the money payment for threshing a quarter of the different kinds of grain. Here the following abbreviations are used:—W. Wheat, Ba. Barley, D. Drage, O. Oats, M. Mixtil, R. Rye, Be. Beans, P. Peas, V. Vetches. When the winnowing is included in the payment for threshing, the entry is designated by the signature †. It has not been considered necessary to state the quantities threshed. Winnowing, it appears, was generally performed by women; and much of this labour fell ordinarily on one of the permanent farm servants, the daya or dairy woman. In some of the earliest years it will be seen that the price is not reducible conveniently, and that, occasionally, the payment was made in kind.

Under the second head similar evidence is given of the payment made for (M.) Mowing and (R.) Reaping an acre of grass or corn. The same abbreviations as those under the first head are used. It should be observed, that Reaping includes, unless otherwise designated, binding and stacking; but that Mowing does not include tedding and cocking. In almost all cases the remuneration of the labourer is wholly in money; or the gratuities other than money are inconsiderable: such, for instance, as a small allowance of beer, or a pair of gloves. Occasionally, however, the employer keeps as well as pays the labourer; and then, reckoning up in his account all the charges of his harvest, estimates the cost per acre by a division of the gross expense over the whole area. It has not been thought necessary to introduce the price of tedding and cocking the hay, as this is often performed by the permanent servants or customary tenants on the estate.

The third head is a daily payment, that namely of the thatcher. Such labour is of course to some extent skilled or mechanical. But the almost universal necessity for thatching corn stacks, and the general practice of roofing houses and farm buildings with straw or reeds, cause that the thatcher should have been practically an agricultural labourer.

When, in estimating the price of the thatcher's service, no sign is prefixed to the figures, and the figures are only two quantities, it must be understood that the first denotes the number of days, the second the price per day. When three are given, the first denotes the number of thatchers employed, the second the number of days, the third the price: and in such cases the thatcher alone is remunerated. But often, indeed generally, the price paid includes the service of the thatcher's assistant, garcio, ancilla, homo, mulier. Sometimes, again, this subordinate service is rendered by tenants holding at customary labour. What the thatcher is fed, the fact of course is noted.

The fourth head is that of mechanical labour. This is in almost all cases measured by the day. The same arrangement of figures has been adopted in this as in the preceding head. The abbreviations are, C. Carpenter, M. Mason (latomus, or cementarius,) T. Tiler, S. Sawyer. The names given to other artisans are printed at length. Occasionally, the price at which 100 (c) square feet of board are sawn is given.

It will be seen that after the great pestilence of 1348–9, prices of labour enclosed in brackets are given with those at which the service is appraised in the record. Such entries, erased in the originals, are very frequent after the date of the Statute of Labourers, and as they seem to indicate an evasion of the statute, along with the outward appearance of obedience to its requirements, they have been reproduced.

The prices of labour are expressed throughout in pence.

MONEY WAGES OF HIRED FARM SERVANTS.

NOTE.

THE following evidence of the rates at which farm servants were hired is only a specimen, but sufficient, it is thought, to indicate the ordinary money-payments made to such labourers. Nearly every one of the accounts which have been consulted contain under the head 'stipendia famulorum' information on the subject illustrated in the subjoined table; but to have printed all the evidence would have involved much repetition.

It must be understood that, except in rare and obvious cases, as, for instance, that of the bailiffs of Framlingham in 1268, of Langley in 1317, of Hornchurch in 1396, the remuneration of the farm servant is exclusive of corn, and sometimes other allowances. As a rule, the allowance of wheat or (occasionally) other grain received by the bailiff was at the rate of a quarter every eight weeks; by other servants, a quarter at periods varying from ten to fourteen weeks. Often too they cultivated land or possessed stock of their own. This is particularly the case with the shepherd and the daya.

THE PRICES OF PRODUCE.

WOOL AND WOOLFELLS.

NOTE.

THE evidence of the prices of wool during the period 1260–1400 is found in the original authorities under various and occasionally very perplexing heads.

Sometimes the account is in tale, that is, of fleeces, designated by the sign F., and these distinguished as Mutton, Ewe, Hoggast, Hoggerell, and Lamb (L.) fleeces; or of Woolfells (W.), that is, of unshorn sheepskins. These are called "pelles lanutae," as opposed to "pelles nudae." Occasionally the weight of the fleece is given in pounds and fractions of a pound.

More frequently the wool is sold by weight. The weights, however, are very various.

I. Two kinds of pound are used, the great and the little; the latter (lb) being sometimes specified as "juxta libram cerae," the former (lib:) being the same as the clove, or half-stone of 7 lb.

II. The clove is almost invariably 7 lb.: once, however, it is used for the tod of 28 lb.

III. The petra, which is used more frequently than any other weight, is sometimes the equivalent of clove. But it also designates weights of 8, 9, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 pounds. Notwithstanding this apparent confusion, it is not impossible to interpret these weights for the purpose of reduction to an average.

IV. The tod is always 28 lb. It is not however used till late in the period before us.

V. The wey occurs only once, and that very early.

VI. The pondus or pund is used for three quantities. Sometimes it is equal to the petra, sometimes to three clove, or 21 lb., sometimes to pisa.

VII. The pisa is half a sack, thirteen stone, or twenty-six clove.

VIII. The sack generally contains fifty-two clove of 7 lb., or twenty-six stone of 14 lb.

IX. On the Basingstoke estate wool is measured by the nail. This weight seems to be identical with the clove.

X. Once the word "lois" is used to express a weight. I have found no explanation of this word. It does not seem to be much more or less than a pound.

The chronological method used is the same as that hitherto employed: the year being reckoned from autumn to autumn. Hence the entries of most prices of wool, &c. in each year represent the rate at which the produce of the latter half was sold. For instance, the wool sold in the year 1260–1 was shorn in the spring of 1261. It was thought desirable to retain the same reckoning through all the evidence alleged, in order that uniformity should be preserved; but it is necessary to remember that while the most important part of Agricultural produce, e. g. corn, is derived from the first half of the year, some part of the whole is to be referred to the second.

It has been found necessary occasionally to add (+) plus and (−) minus signs to quantities, the price not being reducible to the lowest money integer. The equivalents of these signs are often found in the original authorities.

The wool is almost always of the best quality. Sales of inferior wool, called "locks" and "lana fracta," have not been generally reproduced.

CIDER AND FRUIT.

NOTE.

CIDER is generally sold by the tun (doleum), containing two pipes. Occasionally, however, by the gallon. When no quantity is given, it will be understood that the tun is meant.

Apples (A.) and Pears (P.) are almost always sold by the quarter of eight bushels.

GREASE, &c.

NOTE.

In the following table it will be seen that the various substances collected under the name Grease are sold by the petra, the pondus, the pound, and the gallon.

When no sign is prefixed to the quantity, it is to be understood that the article sold or bought is "unctum." P. stands for pinguedo. C. for cepum. Sometimes it would appear that these substances, when used for dressing sheep, were mixed with some medicaments. In general the grease is intended for cart wheels, or for the home manufacture of candles.

HAY.

NOTE.

There is but little evidence of the price of hay. It is reckoned by the mullo (M.), the carectata (C.), the plaustrata (P.), the arconius (A.), and twice by the truss.

FUEL.

NOTE.

SEVERAL kinds of fuel are specified in the table given below; the names for the several bundles of small wood being apparently local.

Fagots (F.), Fardels (Fd.), Kiddles (K.), Bavins (B.), Spelden (Sp.), Tosards, Billets, and Tallwood (T.) are sold by the hundred: Turves by the thousand (m).

Charcoal (Char:) and Sea Coal (S. C.) are generally sold by the quarter.

Underwood (U.) is generally sold by the acre, occasionally as fagots by the hundred.

PRICES OF MATERIALS.

THE PRICES OF MATERIALS.

SALT.

NOTE.

SALT is sold by measure: the measure used, with scarce any variation, being the bushel. Some few entries, however, are derived from the manufactory, or wychwerke, and are estimated by the quarter. At Oldinton it is sold sometimes by the mitta, a measure apparently of two bushels, and still used in the north-west of England under the name of mett. On one occasion, and at one place (Takley, 1398), it is sold by the stone.

Salt is either "great" or "small," "white" or "grey:" that used for dairy purposes being generally dearer than that consumed in the household.

TAR.

NOTE.

TAR was first used for dressing sheep at the close of the thirteenth century. Before this time the medicaments used for the scab were quicksilver, sulphur, copperas, and verdigris. It is generally sold by the gallon: sometimes, and at later dates, by the barrel. When the measure is not stated, it must be understood to indicate the gallon of four quarts.

COPPERAS AND VERDIGRIS.

NOTE.

In the following short table Copperas is denoted by C., Verdigris by V. The medicines priced in this table are always used for sheep, and were abandoned early in consequence of the general employment of tar for the purpose.

TILES, SLATES, AND TILE-PINS.

NOTE.

In the following table, Tiles (T.), Slates (S.), and Shingles (Sh.) are reckoned by the thousand; Corner, Gutter, and Hupe tiles (H.), Crests (C.) and Festeux (F.), by the hundred.

Tile and Slate pins, also called Kenills (K.), are reckoned generally by the thousand, sometimes by the bushel.

Shingle nails are reckoned by the thousand. The sign † denotes that carriage is included.

HURDLES.

NOTE.

In attempting to reduce the price of hurdles to unity, it is occasionally necessary to use plus and minus signs. These are often found in the originals.

LATHS.

NOTE.

LATHS are sold by the hundred. They are distinguished as "sap" or "hart," or by the material, oak or beech, &c. Occasionally the cost of carriage is included, and the sign † is used, as on previous occasions, to denote the fact.

MARLING.

NOTE.

MARLING land, called "marllatio" or "glisceratio" (French glaiser), is either done by the 100 load (c), as at Maldon, or elsewhere by the acre.

IRON AND STEEL.

NOTE.

IRON is sold by weight and piece (pecia), twenty-five pieces being equal to the hundred-weight. The great piece is also found. Another term plainly identical with piece is 'esperduct,' shortened in the table to esp: When no name is given to quantities of iron, the piece must be understood. Other measures are the slab, the sum, the bloom (bloma), the virga, the bar, the daker, the pilect, and the dozen. 'Osemond' iron is reckoned by the garb.

When it is sold by weight the unit is generally the hundred pounds (c). It is also reckoned by the quarter and quintal. On the Irish manors, and once at Oxford, it is reckoned by the petra.

Steel (asser or acier) is generally sold by the garb or sheaf, containing thirty esperducts or gads. Quantities of steel, when not otherwise noted, are to be understood as garbs. Sometimes it is reckoned by the piece, occasionally by the cake. A variety of steel occasionally met with is called garlok.

Both iron and steel are unwrought, the charge for working being in the earlier period at least equal to that of the prime cost. It has been necessary therefore occasionally to distinguish raw from wrought iron in the quotations.

LATH AND OTHER NAILS.

NOTE.

In the following table, nails designated as Lath, Brod (B.), Floor, Sprig (Sp.), Shingle (Sh.), Stone, Transom (T.), are reckoned by the thousand, others by the hundred. Most of the latter heads are specified, but sometimes the entry does not state the kind. Those merely denoted as 'nails' in the originals are clearly the same as board-nails.

Entries to which no title is prefixed must be understood to be lath-nails.

PLOUGHSHARES.

NOTE.

THE price of ploughshares is very various. This is partly due to the character of the soil, and the consequent lightness or strength of the instrument; partly to the time at which the share was used, the summer share being much heavier and more costly than that used in the winter.

PLOUGHSHOES, CLOUTS AND CLOUT NAILS.

NOTE.

PLOUGHSHOES (ferripedales) appear to have been iron points to wood shares. They are of frequent occurrence in the accounts.

Clouts are used to strengthen the axles of cart wheels.

Nails are reckoned by the hundred.

NOTE.

THE wheels (W.) of carts (C.), sometimes called briddes, were almost always purchased by the bailiffs. They are distinguished as plain, nud:; or ad ferr: ferr: ad lig: that is, shaped to receive irons; or as already bound, ferrate or ferr: lig: When the cart was purchased with complete fittings it is described as bought 'cum toto atillo.'

More frequently, however, the fittings are purchased separately, and described as 'ferramenta,' ferram: 'ligatura,' lig:; or the several parts distinguished as Strakes (S.), Gropes (G.), Strake and Grope Nails, &c. Nails are reckoned by the hundred.

METALS.

NOTE.

GOLD (G.), Lead (L.), Quicksilver (Q.), Copper (C.), Brass (B.), Tin (T.), Solder (S.), and Pewter are to be found in the following table.

The entries of gold denote purchases for use in the arts, or indicate rates of exchange, expressed in marks and florins.

Lead is purchased by various weights. The pound, the libra, the carrat, charret, or caret, the fotmael or pes, the bule, the pund, the fother, the plaustrata, the petra, the pannus, the tela, the wey or waga, the lacrima, are found.

Quicksilver is sold by the pound. It was always employed for sheep dressing, and was generally superseded by tar at the close of the thirteenth century.

Copper and brass occur, either as raw material or manufactured. Pots, basins, dishes, and ewers are frequently mentioned in the accounts; some articles of this material forming invariably a part of the furniture of the ancient farm-house. Unfortunately, however, neither the weight nor capacity are often given. In the cases, however, where either of these circumstances is supplied, the fact is introduced into the table. Values of old brass or copper are also inserted. Both metals are sold by the lb. or c, i. e. hundred.

Tin, solder, and pewter are sold by the pound.

The carriage of metals, if included in the charge, is designated by the sign †.

LINEN AND CLOTHING.

NOTE.

UNDER the following table, such entries in the accounts as give prices for linen and clothing are reproduced. Unless otherwise noted, the measure is the ell (ulna). The yard however (virga) is found, but generally as a cloth measure.

Linen is purchased either for table-cloths and napkins or for wear. When it was intended for the latter purpose it will be found described as 'linen' only. Sometimes the quantity needed for a particular article of clothing, as shirts and shifts, is given in the original.

The names of the different kinds of cloth are numerous. Cloth is sold by the ell, the yard, or the pannus.

Silk is generally sold by the ounce.

Fur and trimmings, caligæ or gaskins, shoes, boots, and gloves, are of frequent occurrence in the originals. A few have been selected for illustration.

Quantities with no prefix denote table linen.

FISH.

NOTE.

HERRINGS are sometimes sold by tale, by the thousand or by the last of 10,000; sometimes by measure, the cade and the barrel. Other fish are sold singly, or by the dozen or by the hundred. Eels generally by the stick. Entries with no prefix denote herrings; and, unless otherwise specified, are by the tale of 1000.

TAXES.

NOTE.

PROPERTY taxes are proportionate to the estimated value of the personal estate. The Roman numerals designate tenths, fifteenths, &c. Some taxes are levied for parliamentary wages; some for foreign ecclesiastics temporarily resident in England; some are special, and are either annual or occasional.

The signs F.S. under the Cheddington entries represent an annual item in the charges, headed "Forinsecum servitium domini regis;" the sign H. under Cambridge a similarly perpetual charge called "Hagabulum Regis."

De expensis custodis Middelton et Harinton circa appropriationem ecclesiæ de Emeldon. anno vj^to^.

DETERMINATION FEAST,

FEB. 1395.

NOTE.

THE following is an account of the charges incurred at the Determination Feast of Richard, son of Thomas Holand, half-brother of Richard the Second, in February 1395, and probably on the 21st and 22nd days of the month, that is, on the Monday and Tuesday before Ash Wednesday in that year. The original is among the Merton Archives, but Gyles was not one of the fellows; and the internal evidence, though slight, seems to suggest that the feast was conducted by the University. The Chancellor at this time appears to have been Dr. Robert Rugge.

Compotus Magistri Johannis Gyles de diversis expensis factis et impositis circa determinationem domini Ricardi filii domini Thomæ de Holand comitis Cantiæ et domini de Weke factis Oxoniæ mense ffebruario Anno R. R. Ricardi Secundi xviij°.

RENTALS.

SOUTHAMPTON, 1195? 1245?

NOTE.

THE three rentals printed below are those of God's House in Southampton, of Cuxham, and of Ibstone. The Southampton roll is not dated, or perhaps, as the head of the roll is injured, the date has been lost. The instrument, however, contains a statement, written in a hand of about the conclusion of Edward the Third's reign, to the effect that the rental was compiled in 1195. It does not, however, seem that so ancient a date can be assigned to the document, which is not later than the middle of Henry the Third's reign, that is, about 1245. God's House was burnt by the French on Oct. 6th, 1338, and was annexed by Edward the Third to Queen's College, by patent, March 22, 1344; the founder of this College being then Provost of the Hospital. (Page 614.) The other two are of the same year, i. e. 1298. The names of the tenants are printed in small capitals.

HOLYWELL COURT.

MONDAY, CONCEPT. B. V. M. 11 Ed. 3. Dec. 8, 1337.

NOTE.

THE following is a recital of a trial for felony, and of a verdict given in the Holywell Manor Court, Oxford. The margin records the execution of the sentence. In all likelihood execution immediately followed conviction. The manor house had a prison (609, 1), but the gallows were very near.

Ricardus de Herbarton appellat Willelmum atte Lane de Roberia et Pace dni: Regis fracta. Et idem Ricardus appellat prædictum Willelmum quod ubi idem Ricardus fuit in pace dei et dni: Regis die Veneris in vigilia Sti: Nichli: anno r. r. Edwardi tercii post conquestum undecimo in suburbio Oxon in parochia Sanctæ crucis infra libertatem de Halywelle in quodam messuagio vocato Tykehulleshous circa horam vesperarum ibi venit prædictus Willelmus ut felo domini Regis prædictis die anno loco et hora et felonice ipsum Ricardum de una roba stragulata precii decem solidorum depredavit. Dictus quod Willelmus felo statim post feloniam commissum fugisse voluit cum roberia et manuopere robæ prædictæ. Et dictus Ricardus statim cum hutesio et clamore levavit ipsum Willelmum felonem recentem insequebatur quousque dictus Willelmus felo ad sectam ipsius Ricardi captus fuit cum manuopere prædicto per ballivum libertatis de Halywelle prædictæ. Istam Roberiam et feloniam prædictam fecit pdcus: Wills: felo felonice contra pacem domini Regis et regalem ipsius dni: Regis dignitatem et si prædictus Willelmus felo roberiam et feloniam istam velit dedicere prædictus Ricardus hoc paratus est distronare per corpus suum vel per quantum curia ista consideravit quod homo fidelis versus felonem facere debeat.

Et prædictus Willelmus defendit omnimodo roberiam et feloniam et quicquid est contra pacem dni: Regis et contra coronam dni: Regis et ipsius Regalem dignitatem. Et dicit quod in nullo est inde culpabilis et hoc ponit se super patriam et prædictus Ricardus similiter. Ideo capiatur inde jurata duodecim jurati de consensu parium electi dicunt per sacrum suum quod prædictus Wills: culpabilis est de felonia prædicta. Et dicunt præterea quod prædcus Wills: nulla habuit catalla nec fuit in aliqua warda quia vacabundus Ideo consideratum est quod pdcus: Ricus rehabeat robam suam prædcam: et quod prædcus: Wills atte Lane felo suspendatur.

EXPULSIO RIC: LYTHUM.

NOTE.

THIS document is a confirmation on the part of the Chancellor of the University, of certain proceedings taken against one of the fellows of Merton College, for breaches of discipline. The College was competent to expel offenders by its statutes, and it is not easy to see why so extraordinary a course was adopted in the present instance, except perhaps on the ground that the Society was generally suspected of Lollardism. Annexed is a facsimile of the Chancellor's seal.

SCRUTINY.

MERTON COLLEGE, 1338–9.

NOTE.

ACCORDING to the Founder's Statutes, the warden and fellows of the College were to meet three times a-year, viz. eight days before Christmas, eight days before Easter, and on Saint Margaret's day (July 20th), in order to enquire into the general conduct of the house, and the behaviour of its members. Every fellow it would seem was invited to speak. It does not appear from the Statutes that such observations as might be made were to be formally recorded in any register. On the contrary, from some of the complaints stated in the following record, it is probable that notes were not commonly taken at the meeting. At any rate, this is the only scrutiny preserved in the ancient archives of the Society. It presents a remarkable and perhaps a singular account of the domestic state of a College in the beginning of the fourteenth century.

The original is written on four membranes. Two of these are damaged by damp, and the greater part of the third is torn away. The one remaining is nearly perfect. The contractions however are very numerous, the writing is very bad, and the grammar is very irregular; so that the contents of the documents have been deciphered with great difficulty.

Scrutinium die Sanctæ Margaretæ anno xij. (July 20, 1338.)

WESTCOMBE dicit de silentio non observato in mensa. Item de discordia inter Wylẏ et Fynemer.

HUMBERSTON quod duo socii deliquerint in hoc quod nolunt ·bire onera domus sicut tenentur. Item quod domus est nimis eratus equis.

FYNEMER quod Elyndon quum loquitur cum sociis nonvult pertere eos loqui. Item quod Wantyng Wyly et Elyndon sunt nimis rebelles. Item quod Wantyng et Elyndon in negotiis communibus tractandis nolunt dare consilium sicut alii socii. Item quod Elyndon et Wyly habent uberius.

GOTHAM. Nihil.

HUMBRESTON quod custos ex statuto deberet assumere aliquos indifferentes ad assidendum sibi et imponere finem illi discordiæ inter Wylý et Fynemer. Item quod Wantyng minus reverenter sc habuit erga custodem, quum coram omnibus vocavit eum Robertum[a]. Item quod juxta formam statuti debemus habere yconomicos in maneriis qui ea possint visitare ad parcendum expensis.

[a] The warden was Robert Treng. He died of the plague in 1350.

INDEX. I.

PLACES.

NOTE.

It has not been thought necessary to collect all the names of places found in the foregoing sheets. None, however, of any importance to the evidence are, it is hoped, omitted. The chief object of the index has been to collect such places as supply evidence of prices, and especially of grain. The few years in which the places quoted give no prices of grain, but only record the money value of some other articles, are printed in a different type.

It has not been always possible to determine the exact position of some among the places enumerated. Occasionally the manor had different boundaries from the parish, and the most diligent search after the name of the former has been unavailing. In a few places on the east coast of Yorkshire, in Kent, and in the south of Sussex, it seems that the estate is now covered by the sea. Sometimes the name is so generic as to be wholly ambiguous; as, for instance, Barton or La Berton, and Thorp. Sometimes, since the spelling of our ancestors is phonetic, the identification of ancient with modern names is, except on internal grounds, almost impossible. The reader, for instance, may take as proved, that Stith, Styth, Stithenach, and Stich are equivalents of the modern Stevenage. The names of persons and places are often spelled in three or four different ways by the same scribe.

By far the largest number of the localities have been identified. In some the county is tolerably distinct, but there is some difficulty in deciding on the place. In some even the county is problematical. In such cases the reader is warned against conceding to the author's hypothesis by a sign of interrogation. It is probable that, with all the pains that have been taken, not a few errors may have been made; and it is likely that local information will enable some readers to discover the locality c such parishes and manors which have not yet been found out by th compiler.

INDEX. II.

PRICES.

NOTE.

THE subjoined Index is a collection of such articles as are found priced in the foregoing pages.

When the figures are separated by a hyphen, the numbers imply that so many pages of the work, including both figures, are occupied by the articles named. When no such hyphen is used, that the pages contain evidence of the same kind. When the second figure is in Roman numerals, it means that the information will be found in such a column of such a page. Thus, for instance, Affri are found from page 183 to page 265, in the third column of page 597, and the first of 598. Again, Bluett is found in pages 536 and 537, in the first column of 538, in each column of 539, and in the second column of 540.

Sometimes several kinds of articles are ranged under one head, as, for instance, under Cloth, Locks and Keys, Nails and Taxes. It was thought better to exhibit these in a tabular form than to put them under separate titles.
